

Trisha's Treasures

By Trisha Smith

The "Addyson" pattern, aka Pocket Full of Posies, is a dress she will just love to wear. This dress will make her happy and won't she be surprised to learn that the flower is a pocket. The opening of the pocket has a bias binding on top of a gathered ruffle with petals behind the ruffle. The flower grows at the top of a long stem that is made complete with leaves. The dress buttons in the back and has a scooped neckline that is finished with a bias binding and ruffle to tie it all together. To top it all off, the dress has "twirl" factor.

This dress is named after a sweet and happy little girl named Addyson.

Thank you Addy for always being such a perfect little model.

Addy is the granddaughter of Diane Head and niece of Shanna Smith, two of my dear friends.
